20th July, 2014 activity of ‘Parivartan’, the Slum Education Programme, a CSR initiative of ITS, Ghaziabad brought a thunderstorm in the slum even without clouds in the sky. Actually it was Dance Competition, first ever in this slum, which attracted good talent and good lot of people too. Initially when we thought of organizing the dance competition in the slum, the biggest challenge was to arrange loud music without power supply. Then we got an idea to use our car music system for the purpose. We opened the dickey and played selected numbers through a pen-drive.

Volunteers of the day – Rana Vishwa Pratap Singh, Anu Verma, Khadeeja Abdeen, Pushpank Kaushik, Anuj Gaur, Ravi Prasad and Shubhajit Mitra started the activity with the announcement of the competition as per earlier information. Soon the willing participants got their names registered and the competition started.
The little children danced on around a dozen different popular numbers. They even requested to change the songs as they had practiced on some other songs. As soon as the music beats rocked the surroundings, people started pouring in and all enjoyed witnessing little versions of Katrina Kaif, Tiger Shroff, Akshay Kumar, Alia Bhatt and many other Bollywood dancers and actors. GUEST LECTURE
As a part of Industry exposure to the 1st year students of PGDM programme, a guest lecture was organized at I.T.S-Mohan Nagar campus on 09th July, 2014. In a very interactive and energetic session Dr Kamal Singh, Director General, National Human Resource Network enlightened students about expectations of the corporate world in changing business scenario. He started his lecture by highlighting the demographic dividend which India has. Around 60% of the country’s population will be in the working age group by 2020. This can reap a rich demographic dividend.

He said, “the business world is too large, ever evolving, ever changing and dynamic. The things which we learn theoretically are totally different from the practical world. It is observed that whatever is relevant today may become outdated and irrelevant tomorrow. Business is all about common sense. It is about learning and understanding which does not have any specific guide lines. At present times, information is the blood of business. It is further more essential that one has to be well read and well versed about areas outside academics.”

He said that the most important thing is the art of grasping whatever comes in one’s way. This is the time of developing relationships and networking which will help the students in the long run. Inquisitiveness is a good quality, so one should never stop asking questions.

In his lecture he related to his own personal life experiences. Students listened and participated in the lecture with great enthusiasm.

He also explained the employers’ perspective while judging a candidate during campus placements.

He made the session interactive by involving students into calculating their total investment during coming 2 years of their PGDM Programme & then dividing it with the effective no. of days.
